

"Patience is a virtue of the genius"

Name:

Patience is the ability of waiting when what we want is not available right now or here. It allows us finishing what we have started and being coherent with our plans and goals, despite the obstacles we might find. Patient people know how to wait quietly for things to happen, making efforts when needed but with no rush. It is, long story short, an important sign of maturity and a very good ally for achieving success at all levels.

The development of the following mission might help specially impulsive and impatient children, who have problems to wait when they ask for something and it's not given to them in that exact moment, and those who have a low self-control level.
